

HALAL FOOD ON CAMPUS

University of Exeter is a multicultural community, with a diverse body of students, staff and visitors who have differing religious and non-religious beliefs and ethics. We are committed to ensuring that services provided meet the needs of this diverse community.

Food at the University of Exeter does not operate any exclusively Halal kitchens. Our kitchens also produce dishes which are Haram. For this reason, none of our kitchens are certified by the Halal Authority and we cannot use the official Halal symbol. However, we do strive to source Halal certified or "Halal-sourced" meat for specific services and menu items in line with our recognition of the diverse needs of our customers.

Please ask the Chef, Duty Manager, Customer Service Supervisor or Customer Service Assistants for the halal status of dishes in our foodservice environments.