

Peter is a consultant with McKinsey & Company's Lagos office. He started with the Firm in 2010 as a Summer Associate and made up half of the first class of interns!!!

He joined McKinsey because it was a privileged opportunity to work with colleagues and clients who were passionate about driving REAL impact. He was particularly interested and passionate about the Lagos office because he spent his formative years in Lagos and has always been passionate about its energy and potential.

The opportunity to help shape its transformation as well as help local and regional business leaders outperform their global peers seemed like a no-brainer plus the chance to work closely with inspirational leaders to help shape the culture of a local McKinsey office, in his home country, from Day 1, just seemed too good to be true.

Peter completed an MPH at Harvard in 2004 and an MBA at INSEAD in 2010. Prior to joining McKinsey, he practiced medicine for 2 years and was a Sector Specialist at the World Bank for 4 years.

Outside McKinsey Peter's main interests centre around Music, Contemporary Art, Travelling and Golf.

Developing
global leaders