

With a Business, Management and Leadership degree from the University of Exeter, you'll be able to:

- understand organisations and the markets they operate within
- create, evaluate and assess options and apply ideas and knowledge to a range of situations
- communicate effectively, manage projects and demonstrate leadership and team building skills
- be self-aware and sensitive to the diversity of people, cultures, business and management issues
- demonstrate effective listening, negotiating, influencing and persuasive skills
- apply critical thinking and evaluate statements
- research business and management issues at both European and international levels

Where can your degree take you?

Skills, expertise and knowledge gained via a Business, Management and Leadership degree are important if you want to pursue a career in management consultancy, insurance underwriting, logistics and distribution, accountancy and corporate finance.

A first degree in Business, Management and Leadership will also give you excellent transferable skills that can make you appealing to a wide range of employers, as well as preparing you for further study.

These are the kind of jobs, employers, and further study programmes that our recent Business, Management and Leadership graduates have gone on to successfully pursue.
