

Scales

What have you learnt from this session?

28 responses

Learnt about different proverbs, cultural differences, language barriers

Communication is good.

Respect different perspective and better communication

I've learnt the differences people have with the smallest things such as asking a teacher for help, due to the difference in culture

Communication can be quite difficult when people are from the different backgrounds

Being more understanding towards different approaches

Every statement has a different expression in other language

It was really nice to see different point of views. Also from a culture that is really direct I appreciate knowing British people aren't very direct so I can take that into consideration.

Being open-minded is important to communicate effectively

What have you learnt from this session?

28 responses

I learnt about the difference of opinion in different culture and a way to the overcome it with proper communication.

It was overall very helpful and to see people from varied backgrounds and understand how it can daunting at times as well to start a conversation and also being very receptive and understanding

Learnt something interesting in communicating with people from other countries. We need to understand the difference in different cultures.

-Developing cognisance about approaching intercultural communications-All people have different ways of approaching communication in different contexts

There are a lot of chance to speak in English communication skill, critical thinking, arouse my interest in different cultures

There are different cultures around the world and we have to respect them and take them into consideration to avoid misunderstandings and to better comunicate with people and live together.

I learned more specific examples of how culture influences our communication, which made me realise it's more complex that I thought. I loved this session, thank you!

How to communicate properly in an international environment and to solve different uncomfortable situations

What have you learnt from this session?

28 responses

That it is important to settle prospectively our responses to certain academic and cultural situations that are likely to arise during the relevant course of studies.

I've learnt about different approaches of communicating with people in various scenarios and that people can interpret mentioned approaches in various ways.

I have find this seminar quite interesting has its something which everyone once should learn and understand

I learned about different cultures and their way of dealing with situations.

This session gave me a very different and refreshing point of view in exploring communication and cultures

Respect others' culture Understanding what others want to say is the most important thing of communication. Use the unstandable words

It was interesting to see certain similarities between cultures in how we communicate with proverbs or how we react to certain situations. Got to know how to be more aware about my surroundings

Il had such an amazing time exploring and discovering various cultures! It's mind-blowing to see how similar our thoughts are, even though we come from different cultural backgrounds.

People with different culture have different perspective, being open minded and patient would help us to understand

What have you learnt from this session?

28 responses

How to be more sensitive to people coming from different cultures

5

25

