St Luke's Campus

About the conference

The University of Exeter will be hosting its annual Technician Conference on the 18th June 2026 on the St Luke's Campus in Exeter.

The theme of this year's conference is 'Nurture' based on one of the three pillars of our Exe-Tech Strategy 2030

Nurture is about supporting our experts so that their invaluable and exceptional level of achievements are rewarded and celebrated, and that they are given the opportunities and ability to succeed.

The programme of the day will be tailored specifically for our 200+ technical staff who work across humanities, science, and engineering departments.

The conference allows the opportunity for our staff to network with key suppliers and providers, to learn best practice about the latest products and services on offer.

About Technical Strategy & Operations

Technical Strategy & Operations comprises of over 250 staff who support teaching and research across all three Faculties at the University of Exeter, in both Devon and Cornwall. Over the last year, we have expanded our remit to also include our Research Software & Analytics colleagues, providing software engineering and data analysis support to research projects.

Although we are predominantly STEMM facing, we also provide support to disciplines in Humanities and Social Sciences, and the Business School.

Location: Cross Keys, St Luke's Campus

The St Luke's Campus is located on the east side of Exeter city centre, just over a mile from Streatham Campus across the city to the north-west. St Luke's is home to Sport and Health Sciences, the Medical School, the Academy of Nursing, the Department of Allied Health Professions, the School of Education and PGCE students.

Founded in 1854 as a teacher training college, students have studied at St Luke's for over 160 years. Throughout that time the campus has grown and developed – currently, engagement activity is underway on an ambitious vision to shape the campus's future as a hub of health and wellbeing research and education.

Although much has changed over the years, St Luke's has retained its vibrant, collegiate atmosphere and sense of history.

In 2018, we invested £1.7 million in Cross Keys, a high quality multipurpose space on campus. This has created a social heart to St Luke's Campus, including a café and a large space for students to meet, eat and study. A £10.5 million upgrade to the South Cloisters was completed in 2015, providing additional, cutting-edge teaching and research space along with new dedicated space for the teaching of Medical Imaging.
